

Interfaith Climate Action Network of Contra Costa County

ican-cc.org Climate change is already harming the Earth. Many in Contra Costa County are already experiencing the harmful effects of stronger, longer heat waves, droughts, unhealthy air and water and toxic emissions from the local fossil fuel refineries locally.

We are of different faiths and no faith work together to reduce the affects of climate change.
We work with our Environmental Justice Partners –

Join the conversation about why climate change matters to you.

Examples of what we do are -

- Partner with environmental justice groups to support voices of health impacted communities– Phillips 66 refinery expansion in Rodeo
- Advocate for policies, bills, & rules that support a just transition from fossil fuels to clean energy – supported SB100 and Community Clean Energy
- Offer presentations & dialogue, e.g.– Father Tom Bonachi 'Our Common Home'
- Offer leadership & participation in marches & tabling – Rise March for Climate, Justice, & Jobs & CC Women's Marches
- Meet with elected officials, Bay Area Air Quality Management District – rules to cap Greenhouse Gas Emissions and Particulate Matter

ICAN is part of the Social Justice Alliance of the Interfaith Council of Contra Costa County and is a working group of California Interfaith Power & Light

Join us. We meet third Thursdays of each month 1pm Raine Room, First United Methodist Church, Walnut Creek
